Project 2 - Milestone 4

I actually enjoyed making this project. I am interested in game design and it was also fun to incorporate music in it as well. I thought that this app could be useful in helping people with their "musical ear" and did receive some feedback that people thought it would be useful. I also wanted the learning to be fun so I made it into a game, which I think would be useful as learning music may sometimes be monotonous. I had a bit of trouble with the layout of the piano keys, but I then decided to use linear and relative layouts, which seemed to get the job done. Next time, I would like to work on the design a bit more to make it look nicer and more professional. I wasn't to ecstatic about the colors so I would like to change that next time. I would also like to add a way to save high scores, but I just didn't have time.
